

IMPULSE's claims management module helps you to decipher which children require things such as school meals and uniforms provided to them. By making the process straightforward for schools and parents alike, it reduces the administrative burden on local authorities in settling cases and claims.

Working in tandem with both parent and school portals, it enables parents to make claims for provisions and receive a response via the online eligibility checking service.

Once this is determined, it feeds into the school's portal, making it easy for schools to balance their accounts and receive the correct funding for things like school meals. This also enables schools to see which pupils are eligible for what, and to update their criteria and eligibility accordingly.

The IMPULSE claims management module helps you by:

Giving more control to parents in applying for and receiving support

Ensuring schools receive the correct funding for school meals and uniforms

Reducing admin tasks for local authorities

Making the checking of eligibility straightforward and hassle free
