

The IMPULSE results and tracking module is where information from school reports can be uploaded into your central data repository, ensuring a central and consistent database of each child's educational journey and results. This makes the task of tracking each child's progress much more straightforward and efficient.

Beyond a child's achievements, the results and tracking module works out cohorts for the CCIS (Client Caseload Information System), meaning that you can monitor the case load for which students should be going forward for further education. This also aligns with the September guarantee, ensuring that each child is receiving some form of education, or doing something, come September.

The results and tracking module helps you to:

Store and view each child's record of achievement

Share and access information easily

Work out cohorts for CCIS

Align with the September guarantee

Gain a more holistic overview of each child

The send caseworker module supports you by:

Helping you identify SEND cases and requirements early

Communicate clearly across all concerned parties

Empowering parents by providing them with transparency and a voice

Work on tasks seamlessly as a team

Improving outcomes for all young people from 0-25

IMPULSE can record costs of providers and services as well as the provision allocated to each child, allowing the costs to be calculated around provisions for each child. This is currently included in IMPULSE so we can calculate the amount spent per child, per year. Reports can extract the amounts payable to providers based on the provision in the time period.
